CENTRAL STATE NORMAL

Regulations Governing the Courses of Study

This Course of Study has been officially authorized, and contains the courses of study which have been worked out by the Council of State Normal School Presidents and approved by the State Board of Education. It is absolute authority as to the work offered by the six state normal schools of Oklahoma. Prospective students of these schools should make themselves acquainted with the following aspects of the work:

1. Requirements for Admission.
2. Advanced Standing.
3. High School Graduates.
4. "Unit of Credit" Defined.
5. Maximum Amount of Work per Term.
6. Divisions of the School Year.
7. Requirements for Graduation.
8. The Various Courses.
9. All Diplomas Represent Six Years' Work.
10. Absentia Work.
11. Student-teachers.
12. Library Work.
13. Music.
14. Credits from State Normal Schools on County Certificates.
15. The Two-Year Certificates.

1. Students may be admitted to the first year of the Normal Preparatory upon presentation of a county diploma of graduation from the eighth grade; or, upon presentation of a certificate showing completion of the eighth grade of city or village schools; or, upon passing the required entrance examination; provided, that persons twenty-one years of age or over who have not attended school for several years may be admitted on discretion of the president.

2. Students may be admitted to advanced standing in two ways—first, by examination, and second, by credits earned in other schools. The work done by students entering from high school before graduation shall be evaluated by the faculties of the various schools. No subjects pursued in a high school course of any high school or college shall shorten the normal course to fewer than twenty-four units of work. The Normal College Course may be shortened by credits from a college or university, but not to exceed twelve units of work.

No further credit will be given for any subject taken in a high school and repeated in the normal. Students should present their credentials to the president when they register. A certificate of work done in other schools must be on file in the normal office. Blanks for such credits may be secured from any of the normal schools upon application.

Students having grades upon teachers' certificates, which grades represent work done in universities, colleges, or normal schools, instead of presenting the certificate for advanced standing, should present a certificate from the registrar from the school attended. This registrar's certificate will receive due consideration; otherwise with the grade which appears on the teacher's certificate.

No credit will be given for experience in teaching. However, it shall be within the discretion of the Director of the Training School, after the student has completed courses 11 and 12, to permit an additional unit in Education to be taken in lieu of course 13; provided said student shall have had two or more years of successful experience in teaching.

3. Except as otherwise indicated in the outlines of the various Normal

School Courses of Study which follow, the following requirements shall be made for entrance to these courses:

- English, three High School units.
- History, two High School units.
- Agriculture, one High School unit.
- Another Science, one High School unit.
- Mathematics, two High School units.
- Penmanship, one-third High School unit.
- Vocal Music, one-third High School unit.
- Drawing, one-third High School unit.
- Elective, six High School units.

Unless especially designated as a possible college elective in the courses given below, any deficiencies in these requirements must be made up without additional credit.

Graduates of approved four-year high schools may receive the Two-Year Certificate (described under section 16), upon completion of one year of resident work in a state normal school, including the prescribed units in Penmanship, Agriculture and Education.

4. A unit is a course of twelve weeks in length, of five recitation periods per week, of sixty minutes each. In all subjects requiring laboratory work there will be two recitations and three laboratory periods per week—each laboratory period being two hours in length.

5. It is the policy of the Oklahoma Normal Schools to limit the number of units which the student may take during a single term to four, but a pupil who has in any term made an average in all subjects of 85 may be permitted to take an additional course, so long as that standing is maintained.

Students who enter after the close of the third week may carry but three units of work.

6. The school year is divided into three terms of twelve weeks each. There will be a summer term of ten weeks. Any regular credit courses will be offered upon sufficient demand.

Any three terms constitute a year's work.

7. Seventy-two units (see section 4 above) of work are required for graduation; forty-eight units are completed in the Normal Preparatory; twenty-four in the Normal College.

8. Courses offered by this institution are of two kinds. First, the Normal Preparatory Course. All the subjects in this course are of high school rank, and in this connection, see paragraph 3. This course requires forty-eight points for its completion. Second, the Normal College Courses, each of which requires twenty-four additional units and leads to graduation. These are as follows: Academic, Primary Teachers', Home Economics, Manual Training, Music, Public School Art, and Community Service. Each of these will be analyzed in its place in another portion of this catalog.

The policy of those designing this course of study has been to keep separate as far as possible secondary work and the work of college rank. Preparatory students are not generally expected to be admitted to college classes, and under no circumstances except as stated in the courses of study, shall a college student receive credit in preparatory courses. The only exceptions to this regulation are noted explicitly in the courses of study.

9. Every diploma issued by an Oklahoma State Normal School, according to the present regulation, represents the completion of a course of six years beyond the eighth grade, or two years beyond the approved four-year high school course. Should the student specialize in Domestic Science, for instance, this will mean that the electives of the last two years have been devoted mainly to that department, but will imply no shortening of the course.

10. Courses in the departments of Geography, History, Mathematics, English, Foreign Languages, and Education may be pursued in absentia by any student or person eligible to become a student in a state normal school.

The student may take an examination on his work at the end of the term or of the school year. Such examination shall be of such length and scope as to determine whether the work offered is acceptable upon equal terms with work done in residence (see correspondence courses on page 42).

Nothing in this regulation shall be construed to lessen the resident requirements for graduation.

11. Student teachers who satisfy the Director of the Training School of their ability to teach may be permitted to do a part of the required teaching in the Normal Preparatory.

12. A limited number of students may work two hours each day during the year in the library, and receive one unit credit, as an elective, towards graduation.

14. Quotation from the new school law, section 9, article 14:

13. For students who major in music, credits earned through individual lessons shall count toward graduation. In the first three years of the course such lessons shall not be given credit, this amount of work being considered as a merely preparatory basis. A year's work in music shall be done at the rate of two thirty-minute periods per week, and this shall apply to the entire six years. One credit is allowed for two periods per week for one term with daily practice of between two and three hours.

"No person shall be permitted to carry any grades from a certificate of a lower grade to a certificate of a higher grade, provided that credits secured within three years from any of the state normal schools, the state university, and the agricultural and mechanical college on subjects that would entitle the holder to graduation on that subject may be substituted in lieu of an examination on that subject, and said credits may be carried from a certificate of a lower grade to a certificate of a higher grade."

In keeping with the above section the State Board of Education has ruled that the minimum requirements for graduation on subjects certified for credit on teachers' certificates shall be shown in the following table:

At a meeting of the State Board of Education on July 1, 1915, the following resolution was adopted:

"Be it resolved, by the State Board of Education, that it is the sense of the Board that high school credits shall not be certified to any one by the normal school presidents or their faculties;

"That we hold that the only credits which we can recognize as authorized by law to be certified to county superintendents, are those actually made in the normal school by bona fide students; and that we request all presidents and faculties to adhere strictly to this provision."

15. Resolution adopted by the State Board of Education in the summer of 1911:

"Teachers who have finished the first four years' work of the state normal schools of Oklahoma, and have had regular courses in School Management, and Psychology, may be granted a certificate by the State Board of Education, good for two years, upon equal standing with a first grade county certificate, after such certificate has been registered with the county superintendent of the county in which the teacher desires to teach. Such certificate shall not be subject to renewal, and the grades shall not be transferred to any other certificate." This certificate may be issued to high school students who meet the general requirements stated above, and who have done at least one year of residence work in the Normal School issuing the certificate.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

PROF. L. B. RAY, Director

PROF. B. F. NIHART, Pedagogy      PROF. P. C. SMITH, History of Education

DR. E. D. MURDAUGH, Psychology.

MISS BERTHA MATHEWS, Primary Education

11. Observation and Teaching in the Training School.—Professor Ray.

Text for class work: Bagley's School Discipline. This course is designed to familiarize teachers with the basic principles of elementary education as they are met with in daily practice. To this end observation work in the training school will be required. The theories of education will be built around and justified by practice.

12. Observation and Teaching in the Training School.—Professor Ray.

Students choose the departments desired, as primary, intermediate, and grammar. All teaching will be supervised by the critic teacher or the director. Lesson plans are to be prepared by the student and approved by the critic teacher or the director before they are to be used in class. At stated times the director will discuss the principles involved in the practice teaching.

13. Observation and Teaching in the Training School.—Professor Ray.

This course will be a continuation of No. 12. Some teaching independent of supervision.

Pedagogy 6; Junior Year; 12 weeks. Text, Strayer's "A Brief Course in the Teaching Process." The course consists of a general treatment of what to teach, the arrangement of subject matter and the forms of lesson plans. Students will investigate courses of study as given in the catalogues of our principal city schools and report such a course as they feel would fit our young and growing commonwealth. What is taught in the first grade in reading, arithmetic, spelling, etc., will be extended to other grades.—Professor Nihart.

Pedagogy 7; Senior Year; 12 weeks. Text, Myrick and Kendall's "How to Teach the Fundamental Subjects." This subject treats of how to teach. In Pedagogy 6 students learn what to teach in the different grades based upon our State Course of Study. In Pedagogy 7 they learn how to teach.—Professor Nihart.

History of Education, 9. The purpose of this course will be to give students a thorough understanding of the educational problems of ancient people, their ways of solving them as well as their modes of living and religious beliefs. To serve as a basis for future work the student should be able to point out all sound educational principles of the ancients and apply them as far as practicable to the working out of our present day ideals.

In modern education we will review all the work of our modern educators and educational institutions from the time of the Reformation to the present day. A thorough study and understanding of the educational principles advocated by Comenius, Locke, Rousseau, Pestalozzi, Herbart, Froebel, Spencer and Horace Mann will be expected as well as all phases of educational work receiving the attention of our teaching men and women of the present time. Emphasis will be placed on the development of education in the United States.—Professor Smith.

Philosophy of Education, 10. This course is designed to furnish a direct and easy approach to the problems of education, giving the pupil a broader and more liberal view of all things pertaining to educational life. Two direct lines of work will be ever in mind and receive equal attention, viz.: The Philosophy of Education and the Philosophy of Teaching.—Professor Smith.

Psychology 4. An introductory course in psychology, with a study of the nervous system, the intellect, motives, feelings; the subconscious life, and the aptness of definitions, with introductory study in the experimental field.—Dr. Murdaugh.

Psychology 5. An advanced course in psychology, with special stress on the psychology of the child, the adolescent, and the youth, and a practical application of the principles involved to the class room experience of the teacher. Observation study in training school pupils, and further laboratory work in experimental psychology. Dr. Murdaugh.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE

PROFESSOR OTTO W. JEFFRIES

Assistant: J. ROTHENBERGER

LATIN.

Courses 101, 102, 103. Beginning Latin.

In these three courses inflections and syntax are studied in connection with translation and composition. A special effort is made to make Latin practical as well as interesting, but nothing is sacrificed that will render the work less thorough as a basis for further Latin study and the study of the modern languages.—Professor Jeffries.

Courses 104, 105, 106. Caesar's Gallic War.

These courses embrace a study of the first four books of the Gallic War or an equivalent amount of reading selected by the instructor. Bennett's New Latin composition is used in connection with a Latin Grammar for the study of writing Latin and syntax. Careful attention is given to etymology, cognate words and the interpretation of idiom.—Professor Jeffries.

Courses 107, 108.

Five of the principal orations of Cicero are critically studied, and the work in syntax and composition is continued as in Caesar. Special reports are required on subjects connected with the life and works of Cicero.—Professor Jeffries.

Course 109. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

This course comprises a careful translation and a metrical study of about 850 verses of the Metamorphoses as a preparation for the study of Vergil.—Professor Jeffries.

Courses 110, 111, 112. Vergil's Aeneid.

The first six books or an equivalent amount of the Aeneid is read in these courses. Special subjects are assigned for investigation during the reading of the poem that will assist the student in getting Vergil's point of view, and a final written report is required on these subjects at the close of Course 112.—Professor Jeffries.

Select Reading Courses.

These courses are arranged for students that have had four years work or more in Latin. Each term at least one of these courses is given, marked Advanced Latin on the daily schedule of classes. After the class meets and is organized such selection of reading matter is made as will best suit the needs of the class; but in every instance the character of the work is such as will meet the strictest requirements of college work anywhere. Selections for these courses are made from the following: Sallust's Catiline or Jurgurthine War; Cicero's De Senectute, De Amicitia, and De Republica; Terence's Phormio; Livy's History of Rome; Horace's Odes and Epodes, etc.—Professor Jeffries.

ROMAN PRIVATE LIFE.

This course is intended primarily for teachers of Latin and those that intend to take a somewhat extended course in this subject. Students that have had less than two years Latin may not be enrolled for this course. Such subjects as the family, dress, meals, marriage, funeral ceremonies, etc., are considered. Johnston's Private Life of the Romans is used as a basis for the work.—Professor Jeffries.

GERMAN

126. Beginning German. Fundamentals in pronunciation and spelling; introductory reading and conversation combined; memorizing of quotations and vocabularies grouped by topics, numbers; special attention given to cognates; grammar lessons based on preliminary work.—Professor Rothenberger.

127. Continuation of 126. Written work and dictation more prominent; folk songs and poems learned.—Professor Rothenberger.

128. Essentials of Grammar completed; Heyse's L'Arrabiata or a similar piece read.—Professor Rothenberger.

129. Reading of literary texts intermediate in grade; Memorizing of poetry; Composition and review of Grammar; Current events from "Aus Nah und Fern."—Professor Rothenberger.

130. Same plan followed as in 129.—Professor Rothenberger.

131. Same plan followed as in 129 and 130.—Professor Rothenberger.

132. Scientific Reader to acquaint the student with the technical terminology composition based on reading.—Professor Rothenberger.

133. Study of German Classics; William Tell, The Song of the Bell or equivalents.—Professor Rothenberger.

134. Classics continued; Hermann und Doorthea; Minna von Barnhelm or equivalent.—Professor Rothenberger.

135. Modern German Literature; Scheffel's Trompeter von Sakkingen; Ludwig's Zwischen Himmel und Erde or equivalent.—Professor Rothenberger.

136. Course in Journalistic German Reading and Composition combined.—Professor Rothenberger.

137. Short survey of German Literature and Composition.—Professor Rothenberger.

SPANISH.

120. Beginning Spanish. Drill on Pronunciation, (phonetic spelling accent, syllabic division); Memorizing of numbers, groups of words and phrases of every day use; Reading and conversation; Special attention given to cognates; Grammar lessons based on preliminary work—Professor Rothenberger.

121. Continuation of 120. Memorizing of short poems; written work more stressed.—Professor Rothenberger.

122. Completing of essentials of Grammar. Reading of short plays or stories.—Professor Rothenberger.

123. Course in Commercial Letter Writing. Current events; reading of South American History of Liberation.—Professor Rothenberger.

124. Modern Authors e. g. Glados' Marianela; composition and review of Grammar.—Professor Rothenberger.

125. Spanish Poetry. Composition continued.—Professor Rothenberger.

DEPARTMENT PHYSICS AND CHEMISTRY

PROFESSOR DAVIS

Assistant Professor: MISS RICKARD

Physics 151. This course is the first term of Elementary Physics. It covers the subjects of mechanics and sound. The student's time is evenly divided between the class room and the laboratory. About thirty laboratory problems are required. Ten hours per week.

Physics 152. This course is a continuation of Physics 151, covering the subjects of heat and light.

Physics 153. This course is a continuation of Physics 152, covering the subjects of magnetism and electricity.

Chemistry 155. This is the first term of elementary chemistry. The student's time is equally divided between the class room and the laboratory. Ten hours per week.

Chemistry 156. Continuation of Chemistry 155.

Chemistry 157. Continuation of Chemistry 156, to which is added some work in simple qualitative analysis as a preparation for the following course. Throughout the first year of chemistry stress is constantly placed upon its application in the industries and in the study of such subjects as agriculture and domestic science.

Chemistry 158. This is a course in qualitative inorganic chemistry. The student is required to analyze and report on from sixty to eighty chemical compounds, including a few Oklahoma minerals and some samples of patent medicines. Ten hours per week.

Chemistry 159. This is a course in quantitative analysis including both gravimetric and volumetric determinations. Ten hours per week.

Chemistry 160. This is a course in organic chemistry with special reference to the analysis of food products. Ten hours per week.

Physics 154. This course is devoted to work in elementary photography with special reference to its application in the public schools. The student is instructed in the manipulation of the camera, in developing films and plates, in making the prints, in making and exhibiting lantern slides and transparencies, in making Kodak enlargements, in coloring prints and slides and transparencies, and in compounding photographic chemicals. Ten hours per week.

Household Physics 275. This course is required in the Spring term of the Senior year to students in the Department of Home Economics, unless Physics courses 151, 152 and 153 or the three courses in General Science have been taken. The course aims to give a general knowledge of Physics such as one should have in understanding physical phenomena and mechanical contrivances of the home.

General Science 161, 162, 163. These courses are intended to cover the field of Physics and Chemistry in a practical way, and will serve the purpose, first, of an introduction of a further study of Physics and Chemistry, and second of imparting a general knowledge of these subjects to students who will not take further work in either, with special stress on the practical side of the work.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

PROFESSOR F. H. IVES.

Agriculture 208.—Animal Husbandry. Fall Term.

A study of the types and breeds of livestock and poultry and their uses; livestock management, production, shelter, stock judging, diseases and their treatment, dairying, stock feeding and marketing, with special reference to Oklahoma conditions.

Agriculture 207. Crop Husbandry. Winter Term.

A study of Oklahoma farm crops, soils, fertilizers, crop rotation, seed selection, preparation of the seed bed, crop culture, weeds, insects and fungus diseases, harvesting, and marketing.

Agriculture 206. Gardening and Orchard Management. Spring Term.

A study of garden crops, planting, culture, weeds, insects and diseases, hotbeds and other equipment; tree setting, cultivation, pruning, spraying, insects, diseases, and marketing of products. This course includes demonstration teaching of canning fruits and vegetables by the cold pack method, products from the school garden.

Note: The three terms in agriculture are required of all students who graduate and are taken in the fourth year normal preparatory course.

DEPARTMENT OF BIOLOGY

PROFESSOR W. C. JAMIESON

Course 176, Zoology. General study with considerable detail work on insects, crustaceans, myriapoda, aracnida, molusea, while the material may be found in the local field. Either laboratory or field work four times a week. Recitation five times a week.

Course 177, Zoology. A continuation of course 176. Protozoa, porifera, coelenterata, molluscoida, echinodermata, vertebrata. Class work five times a week field or laboratory work four times a week.

Course 178, Zoology. Spring Term. A study of insects. Each student collects and identifies fifty different insects, and makes a drawing of each.

Course 182, Botany. Fall Term. General Botany, including structure, and function of roots, stems, leaves, buds, branches, and flowers. Food transportation, pollination, kinds of fruits, seed dispersal, and habitat.

Course 183, Botany. Winter Term. A study in sanitation, with Conn's Bacteria, Yeasts, and Molds as a basis. Experiments and microscopic study in relation to health, home, and industries.

Course 184, Botany. Spring Term. A continuation of course 182, including plant breeding, classification, origin of plants, bacteria, algae, fungi, mosses, liverworts, ferns, flowering plants. Field and microscopic work, as in the fall.

Course 187, Botany. Summer Term Work. A course in systematic botany. The collection, classification, or identification, and drawing of thirty-five different plants. No text. Gray's and Britton's keys.

Course 188, General Biology. The origin of life, spontaneous generation, parthenogenesis, hermaphroditism, mutation and variation, heredity, functions of life, and evolution.

DEPARTMENT OF MATHEMATICS

PROFESSOR W. T. FORD

Assistant Professor: S. J. PAYNE

Information: Courses 226, 227, 228 are required during first year, normal preparatory course. Courses 229, 230, and 232 or 240, are required during second year, normal preparatory course.

Algebra 226. Young and Jackson. Fundamental Processes to Factoring; page 108.

Algebra 227. Young and Jackson. Factoring, Multiples, Fractions, Ratio, Proportion and Equations; to page 198.

Algebra 228. Young and Jackson. Graphs, Involution, Evolution, Radicals and Exponents and Quadratics; to page 327.

Algebra 232. Young and Jackson. Equations, Logarithms, Imaginary and Complex Numbers, Graphs of Quadratics, Proportion, Variation, etc.

College Algebra 233. Wells, to page 305.

College Algebra 234. Wells, to page 529.

Two courses are given in plane geometry and one in solid geometry. Geometry is studied in its relation to the problems of every day life.

229. Plane Geometry. Through Books I and II, with applications of theorems to the solution of original exercises.

230. Plane Geometry. Books III, IV, and V will be covered. Special attention will be given to the application of theorems to the instruction.

231. Solid Geometry. Completed in this course. Much emphasis is placed on the application of the principles of Geometry to practical measurements.

235. Trigonometry. Three courses are given in this subject. This course deals with Plane Trigonometry.

236. Trigonometry. Special Trigonometry.

244. Trigonometry. Applied Trigonometry and Surveying.

Much field work is done in all these courses.

239. Arithmetic. From beginning through percentage. Emphasis is placed on the pedagogy of arithmetic.

240. Arithmetic. From percentage through and including advanced forms of the subject. Thoroughness is demanded.

DEPARTMENT OF HOME ECONOMICS

PROFESSOR MARGARET MCPHEETERS, Domestic Science.

Assistant Professor: OLIVE THOMAS, Domestic Art.
Course 251.

Domestic Science. What food is, foodstuffs, foodstuffs in nutrition, carbohydrate foods, vegetables, cereals, starch, sugar, standard portions of vegetables, cereals, etc. Personal hygiene. Short course in Rural School Domestic Science.

Domestic Art. Projects: Cooking uniforms, envelope, cap, sleevelets, apron, underwear, teddy bears, underskirt, textile study of cotton, history of sewing, use of machine.

Course No. 252.

Domestic Science. Process of digestion, proteins and fat foods, milk, eggs, cheese, meat, salads and salad dressing, table service, home sanitation, beginning work in butters and doughs, standard portions of recipes computed.

Domestic Art. Projects: Tailored tub waist, tailored tub skirt, textile study of linen and silk, mending, care of clothing.

Course No. 253.

Domestic Science. Household accounts, batters and doughs continued, ices and ice cream, fruit canning, planning and preparation of balanced meals.

Domestic Art. Projects: Tub dress, hat complete, textile study of wood, consumer's league.

Course No. 254.

Domestic Science. Extended fruit canning, preserving, jelly making make out budget for family of six, $1,200 income, breakfast and luncheon planning for above family.

DEPARTMENT OF MANUAL TRAINING

PROFESSOR V. O. WILSON, Director

276. This course is outlined to give a comprehensive and broad view of modern ideals of education. Methods, Pedagogy and Psychology of Handwork will be discussed. Vocational Education and Guidance, Industrial Education and Motor Training are considered in a thorough manner. Theory and Practice in all phases of Handwork, for all grades and materials, fill the hand training side of the course, while the correlations with every subject in the curriculum offer wide opportunity for class discussion. Special emphasis is placed upon the local materials available. The proper time and emphasis is given to the following phases of handwork: Paper tearing, folding, and cardboard construction, rug weaving, mat weaving, basketry, clay modeling, knife work, simple wood construction for rural and city schools, and working drawings.

277. Devoted to the problem of expressing ideas by Mechanical Drawings. Special emphasis being placed on causing the child to think in three dimensions, design and plan things for himself. The theory and practice is presented in each of the following divisions: Lettering, orthographic projection, isometric projection, cabinet drawing, perspective, working drawing, scale drawing and blue printing.

278. Elementary Woodwork covers the care of tools, tool sharpening and tool processes, simple construction and wood finishing. The making of working drawings and the reading of blue prints is emphasized. One day each week is devoted to special study of industrial conditions and structural work. The course fits the teacher to better serve the local community in which he or she may teach.

279. Advance Woodwork continues the work of 278 and gives special attention to larger problems and more difficult phases of tool and machinery practice. Special reference is given to preparation for high school teaching. Advanced problems of woodfinishing and upholstering.

280. Wood turning or Lathe Work covers exercises in spindle, faceplate and chuck turning, thus giving the student control of tools in all kinds of cuts. After the preliminary work the student is given instruction in turning bowls, goblets, Indian clubs, dumb bells, etc. Elementary pattern making is taken up in the latter part of the term and foundry casting is demonstrated. Metal spinning is covered in an elementary way.

281. Art Metal Work covers the processes typical of raising bowl forms, sinking trays, marking surfaces, back grounding, riveting, sawing, soldering, etching and designing. The cleaning and polishing of copper and brass as well as the proper coloring and finishing of the models is emphasized.

282. Advanced Mechanical Drawing covers the problems in machine drawing and design, gear construction and house design and planning and architectural drawing.

283. Advanced Lathe Work gives special attention to the more difficult problems in ordinary turning and covers the subject of advance pattern making. Couplings, pulleys and bearings are worked out as in the commercial shops.

285. Rural Mechanics gives a careful study of rural conditions; how to meet local needs, and general occupational outlook and service for the rural child. The problems of helping the farm boy and girl in construction work, labor saving, and home decoration and furnishing. Farm carpentry, simple drawings and buildings, painting and sanitation.

286. Elementary Pottery covers the study of clays, their use, composition and value from artistic and commercial viewpoint. Simple modeling of vase, bowl, tile and decorative forms. The elementary chemical glazes and firing as applied to simple pottery forms.

287. Additional study of commercial pottery and clay products. More difficult modeling and relief work leads into the field of sculpture work. Elementary sculpture modeling and making of castings by means of molds made by the students. History of commercial pottery and sculpture.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

ARTHUR HOWARD GREENE, Supervisor

Public School Music, Chorus and Vocal Music

PEARL REECE, Piano, Band and Orchestra.

Piano, Band and Orchestra.

326. Elementary theory of music, musical notation; a practical study of sight singing, ear training and conducting.—Professor Greene.

327. Continuation of course 326. Advanced theory; part singing conducting, beating of time carefully developed.—Professor Greene.

328. Elementary Harmony. Theory of Music. Scale formations, intervals, triads.—Professor Greene.

329. Voice Culture. Tone, placement breathing, tone production, with individual instruction, open to students in fall term, Junior year, music course, no tuition.—Professor Greene.

330. Continuation of 329, open to students in fall term, Senior year, music course. No tuition.—Professor Greene.

331. Great composers. A study of the life and work of the great composers.

333. Music in the Primary grades.—Professor Greene.

334. Music in the advanced grades.—Professor Greene.

332. Normal Chorus. This class consists of a chorus of 200 voices, under the direction of the supervisor. Rehearsals are held twice a week. The work of the year is planned with special reference to the spring music festival and to special concerts arranged during the year. Any one is eligible for enrollment in this class who has had Courses 326 and 327, or an equivalent. One credit will be given for a full year's work.—Professor Greene.

335. Melody Writing. Melodies written, with study of meter, stress, tempo. Harmonization of melodies.

336. History of Music, Musical taste and culture. History of Music. Great composers, collateral work in singing, and in music interpretation, orchestra, opera, and oratorios studied. Talking machine used frequently.—Professor Greene.

337. Choral Directing, use of baton, business of organization and management, balance, with much practice in the grades.—Professor Greene.

*Absent on leave 1917-1918.

C. W. WANTLAND, Director

CARRIE BELL WANTLAND, Assistant, Women's Department

PRESIDENT GRAVES, Commandant, Military Drill

Information: The courses in this department are numbered from 425 to 450 inclusive. Except where otherwise noted, one third credit is earned each term unless there is special work in which from eight to twelve hours are given per week. Beginning in the Fall term, 1917, Military Drill will be offered. A full credit will be given for this work in the first term, and one third credit thereafter.

Equipment: Central Hall, a large building specially constructed for games. This is an excellent ball court 45 by 70 feet. There are also on the campus an exercise room or girl's gym, in the upper story of Old North Hall, an out-door swimming pool available in warm weather, several tennis courts, and out-door basket ball and volley courts. A large athletic field with bermuda sod, fenced in with a hedge which completely surrounds it, and containing a full quarter mile track, baseball diamond, football field and several sections of covered bleachers, completes the equipment.

In all classes talks are given on the study of the body with special attention to the health of the student. Prominent physicians and teachers are often called in to lecture on personal and sex hygiene.

All of the work is given with an idea to benefit the student, yet special stress is always laid on the fact that this is a teachers' school.

425. General Gymnastics for Beginners. Commands, free hand exercises, marches, Indian clubs, dumb bells, wands and some apparatus work.

Given two hours each week. Miss Wantland.

426. General Gymnastics for Advanced Students. Continuation of Course No. 425, which is required before taking No. 426.

Given two hours each week. Miss Wantland.

427. Plays and Games for Any Student. This Course will teach one many of the games suitable for children of different ages and grades. Classification of games according to grades will be given.

Given two hours each week. Miss Wantland.

428. Plays and Games for Advanced Students or Juniors and Seniors. Continuation of Course No. 427 with special stress on the selection of games suitable for certain schools and communities.

Given two hours each week. Miss Wantland.

429. Folk Dances for Beginners. The different National Folk Dances will be taught, with special emphasis on the English Folk Dance.

Courses No. 425 and 426 are required before entering this class.

Given two hours each week. Miss Wantland.

430. Folk Dances for Advanced Students. Course No. 429 is prerequisite. Aesthetic dancing will be given in this course according to the demands of the class.
